Here and There.

Oxford County residents who are passing the winter in Florida tantalize their neighbors who have to stay at home with stories of oranges and alligators. Each variety of story is interesting and brings a pang of regret to the Oxford—regarding the winter mercury which has dropped to 30°. Many, while down in the picked end of Florida, it is up about eighty degrees; that the best a Mainite has to do is to eat speckled trout, a bacon dinner, instead of a shank of lamb in God's kitchen; while the alligator stories—there seems to be something the matter with the alligators of one people bring big alligators with them and they have babies for some time. Those who have read alligator lore say they average to grow about two inches a year. That is why they stay with us in this same state of mind for years—some five hundred of them perhaps. There was a picture of one in a recent issue of the Boston Post that for a moment I thought he had been born here when Columbus discovered America. It was Ponda de Leon. He was fifteen feet long. Now if this lizard had grown at the rate of two inches a year he would be 150 feet long. The old ichthyosaurus which must have been the great-grandfather to the alligator of to-day did not grow much longer or so something must have happened to them when they are a hundred years old or so.

Perhaps the North Pole controversy may be reopened again, as a part of it at least, appears to have been in cold storage. Dr. Clark made what many point on the earth's surface. The reason for the re-opening is that Kenneth Clark, a Harvard man who is wintering in Arctic and North America, has found a small tribe here who are existant in the possession of an Eskimo which apparently belonged to the discovered discoverer. This northern hunting party has been seen east of the Cook expedition and when they turned back picked up everything belonging to the white man. On the flyleaf of a book Dr. Cook's name and is cause of his being here, longitude, weather and ice floe conditions. A part of the book is so worn that it is impossible to decipher it, but there are notes quite legible up to latitude 80°. Evidence both for and against the conditions are unsatisfactory. The latter's vehement denunciation of the former is to an investigation of his records by Cook's widow. Dr. Cook's unsatisfactory with a doubt of his reaching the pole, which led that body to modify the wording of the resolve giving the medal, to the discovery of the North Pole, but for a very long time, however. Also many of the so-called discoveries made by the admiral have been struck from naval maps because they have not been verified by land travelers.

"Slopers" have got into the United States Senate and are raising the Dickens with that august body. Some of the senators have discarded their male secretaries and replaced them by pretty girls who are not afraid to be seen in public, and a couple of feet of silk stockings, harmony or contrast—generally contrast. Senators who have hired these "little lilliputians" want them to have the same status as the clerks, and as the male clerks. Many of the conservative members are opposing this innovation on the ground that their present would be disgracing and might cause the tongue of the "piece" they were speaking.

The Los Angeles Times is edited by a Mainie Harry E. Andrews, who at one time covered this part of the state for the Boston Post. Dr. Clark seems to think people don't care where he is, or what to call the place if they know so, as he runs a phonetic name of his own, "the angels over his editorial column." The city would do well to change its name to the phoneticism, and run the real name as a pronunciation.

Financial experts say United States dollars are worth thirteen cents more than they were last year. Whether this refers to the added amount of reserve gold, or the added amount of merchandise, is not known, but with a dollar is not stated, but there is no doubt, no doubt but it is worth that much more to get a dollar this year than last.

A prisoner in Sing Sing was recently fined one hundred dollars for failure to appear in court for trial before a New York court. That was taken as a mean advantage to replenish county funds.

Familiar breeds contemps, so it is said, and that seems to be the case up in Manchester, Vermont, where they build sidewalks out of marble.

Maine Brains in California. Richard Hinde Barker, the winner of the Rhode Island scholarship for California this year, is a son of A. C. Barker, now superintendent of schools in Wiscasset. A. C. Barker was reared at North Turner Bridge and taught school in North Turner and Leeds in the '80's. His son Richard is now a student at the State Normal Department of Stanford University, West June. The selection of Barker was made from a large list of candidates from the universities and colleges of the state of California.

In the will of Fred A. Perry of Lewiston, provision is made that the entire estate is, upon the death of Mrs. Lena Horne, and Mary Lucia Alford of Lewiston, be given to the children of the law firm of Auburn Children's Home, the Healy Orphan Asylum and Women's Christian Association of Lewiston and Opportunity Farm of New Gloucester. The estate is estimated at $200,000.

SOUTH PARIS.

A WINTER DAWN.

A blizzard drove bleak about the snow. The trees were silent, the birds were still. There was a shivering in the sagging wire fence, a quiver in the frozen ground. Along the street, in wavering and in frost, he was a brother of Mrs. L. A. Powers. With his coat open, he was a caper in the snow-sweat in winter's row. He was a boy, a man, a father, a son, a husband. Sounded a horse's hoofs in the snow. The first footfall sprang to sudden view. Battered white, he shrank from his frosty beard.

Witlessly, he scurried through the snow. A horse stood by his ravelled road.

Clinton Scudder in Forum.

Dr. A. P. Goodrich of Lewiston was in town Friday.

Harry Stone has been putting in several days in Boston.

Mrs. Otho Bean of Portland has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Sweet.

A蒙特肖斯Chase of Harry's Pond was in this village and Norway on Friday.

Dance at Grange Hall Saturday evening, Feb. 4. Music by Al Melanson's Orchestra.

George Walton of Boston is in town for a few days with his daughter, Mr. Joseph Currier, the past week.

The Baptist women's missionary society will meet with Mrs. J. L. Wilson Thursday afternoon of this week at 2:45.

Monday morning seemed like a nice crisp March day, but we feel sure that there's still a full month before March comes.

There will be a roast meat dinner at the Universalist church Wednesday, Feb. 4. At 8:30, children under 12 years 25 cents.

The Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Congregational church will meet with Mrs. A. W. Walker Thursday afternoon at 2:30.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Currier entertained the Western Avenue rock club Friday evening at their home. Five tables were filled.

The Junior Endeavorers of the Congregational church will meet in the vestry room Saturday afternoon at 3:45 o'clock with Mrs. A. W. Walker.

The Congregational Woman's Missionary Society will meet at the home of Mrs. A. W. Walker Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The subject will be "Islam."

B. W. Tuttle, proprietor of Hotel Andrews, is putting on steel ceilings in several of the rooms in the hotel, and making repairs and improvements in the house.

The Optimistic Club meets with Mrs. Forbes Saturday afternoon. It is hoped anyone who cares to join will come up Saturday afternoon and not wait for a special invitation.

Rev. A. T. McWhorter, formerly pastor of the Congregational church in this place, now of Lawrence, Mass., was at home Saturday and occupied the pulpit of the South Parish Congregational church there.

Miss Carrie Hall left Saturday for Boston, to attend the meeting of the New England Hale Dressers' Association, which meets at the Horticultural Building, Boston, on the 27th and 28th. She will be gone about a week.

Mrs. G. O. Turner attended the meeting of the Maine Writers' Research Club in Augusta Friday. Among the attractions of the program was an address by Dr. Payson Smith and a tea at the Blaine Hotel given by Governor Percival P. Exon.

Alton Maxim has bought the block on the corner of Main and Danforth Streets, Norway, from Harry E. Gibson, and will open salerooms on the lower floor for Leo and Chevrolet cars. He will take possession the first of April and open a saleroom then.

The Ladies' Aid of Deering Memorial Church will sell tickets Saturday, January 28, at 6:30. The supper will be followed by an entertainment under the auspices of the Girls' Class. Admission to supper and entertainment 55 cents.

South Paris, as well as the rest of the territory in the state of Maine, experienced quite a range in temperature during the past week. The weather was cold. Wednesday was the coldest day in fact the coldest of the season. The mercury fell to 25 below zero, which was warm compared with the temperatures of the previous week. The mercury went as low as it could without going into the bulb—44 degrees. New Portland did some one better, standing at 26 below zero. The inhabitants laugh at up-country people in the throes of Arctic weather, with their glasses at the minimum of 60 degrees. The time they had to share the寒风 with us. A tramp reported that at South Portland, where he lives, the thermometer stood at 22 below and at Yarmouth it was 26.

A still alarm was given Monday morning for a chimney fire at the Deering house on High Street. No damage.

Mrs. Muriel Bowler entertained at her home Friday evening, when four tables were filled. Buffet lunch was served. The guests included Dr. and Mrs. C. M. Marill, Mr. and Mrs. Morton K. Clifford, Miss Ruth Bolster, Miss Louise Powers, Miss Nellie Danham, Miss Elizabeth Murphy, Morton Bolster, Louis Danham, Anna Eastman, E. S. Jones, and Clarence McDonald.

S. F. Haskell, who died at his home in Auburn Tuesday at the age of 82 years, was well known in South Paris, where he had been a frequent visitor in time past. He was a brother of Mrs. L. A. Powers. With his wife, he was spending the winter with her daughter, Mrs. Freda Powers, in South Yarmouth, Mass. Mrs. Haskell served in the Seventeenth Maine in the civil war, and suffered the loss of his right arm at Petersburgh. He died a widow and two sons.

Ask Removal of Sheriff Cole.

CHARGED WITH OBSTRUCTING JUSTICE IN GAMBLING MATTERS.

A complaint has been made by Ralph T. Parker of Rumford and other citizens of Oxford County against Harry D. Cole, sheriff of the county, with a petition to the governor asking that he be removed from office and that another sheriff be appointed before the governor and council is appointed on Friday, Feb. 10, at 10 A.M., at the state house at Augusta.

The complaint as filed contains several charges, including that of attempting to cover up in connection with the running of certain games at the fairs in the county last September, and the removal of Deputy Sheriff Fred A. Weeks of Mexico for failing to do his duty as sheriff. The sheriff in the matter of which he was charged has already received much publicity.

The complaint alleges:

First, that the said Harry D. Cole on the 6th day of November, 1921, attempted to obstruct the administration of justice by ordering his deputy, Fred A. Weeks, to have certain cases, to wit: State vs. John J. Fenster, Charles J. Edson, and Lee Bennett and State vs. James A. Shire, when the said Rumford Falls Municipal Court had respondents discharged without a hearing upon the charges made against them.

Second, that on the said 6th day of November, 1921, the said Harry D. Cole, attempted to obstruct the administration of justice by telling a certain person to your complainants, unknown to the court, to make a statement to the court that he had been discharged without a hearing upon the charges made against him.

Third, that the said Harry D. Cole on the 20th, 21st and 22d days of September, 1921, at the fair grounds in Norway, in said county, knew and wilfully allowed and permitted certain persons to keep places or booths near and in close proximity to the fair grounds for the purpose of gambling and for promoting a lottery.

Fourth, that the said Harry D. Cole on the 20th, 21st and 22d days of September, 1921, at the fair grounds in Norway, in said county, knew and wilfully allowed and permitted certain persons to keep places or booths near and in close proximity to the fair grounds for the purpose of gambling and for promoting a lottery.

Fifth, that the said Harry D. Cole on the 20th day of September, 1921, at the fair grounds in Norway, in said county, knew and wilfully allowed and permitted certain persons to keep places or booths near and in close proximity to the fair grounds for the purpose of gambling and for promoting a lottery.

Sixth, that the said Harry D. Cole on the 29th day of September, 1921, at said Andover, in pursuance of his designs to allow certain gambling resorts to be run on the fair grounds in said Andover, and then to keep places or booths, used, kept and reserved to for the purposes of gambling and for promoting a lottery.

Seventh, that the said Harry D. Cole on the 29th day of September, 1921, at said Andover, in pursuance of his designs to allow certain gambling resorts to be run on the fair grounds in said Andover, and then to keep places or booths, used, kept and reserved to for the purposes of gambling and for promoting a lottery.

Eighth, that the said Harry D. Cole on the 29th day of September, 1921, at said Andover, in pursuance of his designs to allow certain gambling resorts to be run on the fair grounds in said Andover, and then to keep places or booths, used, kept and reserved to for the purposes of gambling and for promoting a lottery.

Ninth, that the said Harry D. Cole on the 29th day of September, 1921, at said Andover, in pursuance of his designs to allow certain gambling resorts to be run on the fair grounds in said Andover, and then to keep places or booths, used, kept and reserved to for the purposes of gambling and for promoting a lottery.

Tenth, that the said Harry D. Cole on the 29th day of September, 1921, at said Andover, in pursuance of his designs to allow certain gambling resorts to be run on the fair grounds in said Andover, and then to keep places or booths, used, kept and reserved to for the purposes of gambling and for promoting a lottery.

Eleventh, that the said Harry D. Cole on the 29th day of September, 1921, at said Andover, in pursuance of his designs to allow certain gambling resorts to be run on the fair grounds in said Andover, and then to keep places or booths, used, kept and reserved to for the purposes of gambling and for promoting a lottery.

Twelfth, that the said Harry D. Cole on the 29th day of September, 1921, at said Andover, in pursuance of his designs to allow certain gambling resorts to be run on the fair grounds in said Andover, and then to keep places or booths, used, kept and reserved to for the purposes of gambling and for promoting a lottery.

Thirteenth, that the said Harry D. Cole on the 29th day of September, 1921, at said Andover, in pursuance of his designs to allow certain gambling resorts to be run on the fair grounds in said Andover, and then to keep places or booths, used, kept and reserved to for the purposes of gambling and for promoting a lottery.

Fourteenth, that the said Harry D. Cole on the 29th day of September, 1921, at said Andover, in pursuance of his designs to allow certain gambling resorts to be run on the fair grounds in said Andover, and then to keep places or booths, used, kept and reserved to for the purposes of gambling and for promoting a lottery.

Marry a Shoplifter?

By R. RAY BAKER

© 1921, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate

Two years ago Miss Amanda Brown, a young girl of 18, from a small town, from morning till evening, and day after day, she worked at a laundry.

On bridal bouquet or Sunday gown.

But sometimes to her friends Miss Amanda would say, with a sigh, "Yes, I'm always busy, but how I envy folks with a kitchen!"

But after a while for Amanda Brown turned up and not down.

I need not here dwell on how surprised her friends were when they learned that she had been left by her will, and was now here to check on.

"Well, I'll have what I've longed for—a kitchen!" she laughed.

Thereafter, no woman in all of our town was so carefree and happy as Miss Amanda.

And, although we could not feel it a pity that she had to wear ready-made things from the city.

Yet the friend whom, to dinner the day invited, was the first to notice the girl's new kitchen.

"She's been a delight to have in our kitchen!"

And she said gaily, "This is better than stitching!"

"You've been with us about a month, Mr. Jacobs," said the proprietor, "and for about the same length of time you've been a shoplifter, too. We've been trying to catch you, but you've been so good, so honest, so kind, that we've been letting you go."

But sometimes to her friends Miss Amanda was a fear to the eyes; she was a kind, gentle, good-looking girl.

She had a good record, but now that we have one the shoplifter gets busy.

We thought it was the proper, up-to-date thing to have a house detective, and that was the reason we hired you.

Now, this thing cannot last. I have a fairly comprehensive list of the articles stolen, and the aggregate of value is quite large. The articles cover a broad range, from a 25-cent rag doll, a three-dollar vase, a two-cent whistle and a man's necktie."

"I've done my best," retorted Bob.

"But I'll keep at it. I, too, have a list, and I've been studying it. There's such a wide variety of articles taken that you'll never absolutely no clew.

If I do not catch the culprit within a week I shall tender my resignation."

He left the office and in a short time was back again, the victim of a bad cold.

"Perhaps it is," I smiled knowingly.

"You see, it is never the same."

"But I don't understand—it is hard to make—my family will not eat in dressings."

"It is easy enough when you know how. I never use mayonnaise, for I hate the heating done by the fat.

For instance, like my family, you would like my simple recipe, subject to revisions. It is one cup of boiled dressing, one tablespoonful, each, of mayonnaise, green pepper and pimento.

Or a half-teaspoonful of paprika and salt to taste. A tablespoonful of tarragon vinegar, or walnut catup adds a piquant flavor."

Miss Amanda looks up meditatively. "But this is no egg nor green pepper in this."

"No, that's a variation thousand island dressing. I call it. I like three tablespoonfuls of mayonnaise, one cup of any good brand on the market, with a cup of boiled dressing and it is ready to use. You may add a few chopped olives or a diced pickle to make it more attractive, but it is very palatable just as it is."

Miss Amanda nodded her approval.

"Sometimes, when the boiled dressing is empty, I use whipped cream, for example, in a large fruit salad.

For instance, a cup of mayonnaise, a cup of cream, a cup of chopped olives, green peppers, and pimento, and you have a combination for a king."

Miss Amanda was already finding new lands to conquer.

A Different Ice Chest.

"You'll have to excuse me for a minute," said the friend upon whom I was calling one afternoon, as a heavy step sounded at the door, and then a knock.

"Here comes the dirty-footed, and none too honest iceman."

She hurried over to her clean little kitchen, where the iceman was evidently making his rounds upon her scrubbed floor.

"If they'd only come in the morning," she sighed, as she returned a few minutes later, "but, of course, some one has to have his ice delivered at night."

She had to beat to the very end of his route."

"Well," I rempled him, "perhaps you'll be back next year, you won't have to keep your ice chest in the kitchen all the time."

"Oh, yes," my friend quickly replied.

"I'm going to have it in the kitchen to save steps, but it's going to be the most trouble to get out of my way. In the first place, I'm going to have to go to see him in company with Clara and Mr. Elston's daughter, who called for him yesterday evening and drove him home.

No solution had presented itself when Bob left the store that evening for his home. His mind continued to dwell on the subject until he arrived at the front gate, where he met Hazel and Clara coming out of the house.

The sun was shining brightly as it neared the western horizon, but Clara's parson was not in use.
